24 TROUBLE AT THE AIRPORTAnnouncer: Trouble at the airport – Part 1

Emma: Last year my uncle and aunt in California invited me to spend the summer holidays with them. My flight to San Francisco was in the evening. I spent the day doing useful things. First I took my books back to the library. Then I went to the bank to get some American dollars. After that I bought some CDs and magazines to give my cousins. Then I came home and tidied my room. I like my room to be really clean and tidy before I start packing. I got out the biggest suitcase in the house, pushed the cat off my bed and put the suitcase there. Then I started to pack. I was going for two months so I needed a lot of things. I put in the presents for my cousins, lots of clothes and shoes for me, some books and tapes, make-up and shampoo. Then my mother called me to lunch. I went downstairs, ate my lunch and phoned some friends to say goodbye.

Announcer: Trouble at the airport – Part 2

Emma: Time passed quickly and soon it was time to go. I ran upstairs and shut my suitcase. Then I picked up my handbag, checked my ticket, passport and money. My dad carried my suitcase downstairs. We all got into the car and drove to the airport. I was very excited. At the check-in desk, I showed my ticket and a man put my suitcase on the scale. It was nearly twenty kilos. Then the man at the desk said, 'Excuse me, Miss, can you open your suitcase, please?' I said, 'Why? What's the problem?' And he said, 'Don't be clever with me. There's something moving in that case.' I opened the case and Jojo, our cat, jumped out. My mum caught him and held him. The people at the desk were really angry with me. 'You tried to take an animal to the United States', the man said. 'You know that's illegal.' 'I'm sorry,' I said. 'It was an accident. I suppose the cat went to sleep in my case. I didn't look in it before I shut it.' The airline people didn't believe me but they didn't say anything. I didn't care because I was so excited about my trip. I said goodbye to my parents. They took Jojo home and I flew to California.
